Henry D. Halbert now sued For Miss Alice Armstrong's Board.

Henry D. Halbert of Vanceburg, who was sued for $50,000 for breach of promise by Miss Alice Armstrong shortly after he married another woman, is defendant in another suit filed in Cincinnati.

The plaintiff is Julia Weiss, at whose home, 1815 Bremen street, Alice Armstrong lived as the wife of Halbert.

She says that in October, 1886, Halbert came to her house, and, giving the name of Brown, engaged a room for his wife and himself.

They occupied the room for several weeks.

It is charged that he has been there at intervals since, but has not been at the house since October last.

His alleged wife has, however, occupied the room all the time.

Since then the plaintiff says she ascertained that the man and woman are not husband and wife, but that his name is Halbert and her name is Armstrong.

He paid the rent of the room up to May, 1896, at which time he engaged heard for the woman and agreed to pay $3.50 per week for it.

On account of that board he is indebted to the plaintiff, she says, in the sum of $115, and though he has frequently promised to pay it he has failed to do so.

OUR DRUMMER BOYS!

What the Maysville U. C. T.'s Have Been Doing.

Beginning with this issue of THE LEDGER in every Saturday's paper a column will be devoted to the interests of the traveling fraternity and their interests in the houses they represent. All news in this line respectfully solicited, and request that same be placed in our office on the Friday before or given to J. P. Wallace, J. C. Kackley or George F. Brown, members of the United Commercial Travelers' staff.

On Friday evening, January 1st, Mr. William E. Pepper, the well known sales man of John W. Watson & Co., whole sale liquor dealers, entered the mystic portals of the U. C. T.'s. He was conducted by Mr. J. C. Kackley, who knows his part well.

A surprise for January 1st was the marriage of Mr. J. L. Nicholson, Senior, Councillor of the U. C. T. and salesman for the celebrated M. C. R. & Son. He kindly attended the meeting, and after a few minutes with us asked to be excused. We let him go, as there are several of the boys who understood the situation. After meeting hours a delegation of the members called and surrounded our young Benedict with a supply of fireworks. After expending some 200, we finally heard the window raise and a weak voice say, "Please excuse me, I am very tired," and down went the window. Wasn't this a bluff? Finally we searched the neighborhood, found a ladder and put it to the front window, when lo, he said, "Boys, don't come any further; I'll be down in a few minutes." What we did was a plenty. We have since learned that among the presents received was a large pumpkin.

Messrs J. B. Russell, J. L. Nicholson and J. J. Fitzgerald were the only boys who have ventured out this week. They report trade fairly good for the time of the year.

Monday, January 11th, will be Court Day at Carlisle. As far as heard among those who represent our city's interest in attendance are J. B. Russell, Geo. F. Brown, J. J. Fitzgerald, J. C. Kackley, R. B. Owens, Wm. Trouts, J. W. Lee, W. H. Means, J. B. Comer and J. W. Fitzgerald.

A committee has been appointed to make arrangements to attend the meeting of the Grand Council of Kentucky and West Virginia of U. C. T.'s at Huntington, W. Va., May 7th and 8th. They began thinking.

On Friday evening January 15th, after meeting, the members of the U. C. T. will be served with a lunch of possum and sweet potatoes.

Our Genial Past Councillor, Dr. John Platter Wallace, was at a downtown restaurant one day last week absorbing both mental and bodily nourishment. On his right side was a plate of baked beans, which he automatically conveyed to his mouth in varying portions, and his left hand was occupied with a copy of a sump case. Gradually the elbow slid further along the counter, until the reader was compelled unconsciously to reach for his forkful of beans. Close at his right hand sat a tall, thin man, who was engaged in consuming rice pudding, and between his plate and that of the Doctor a very narrow space intervened.

The Doctor reached for another forkful of beans, and got one of rice pudding instead. The expression on the face of the pudding eater as he saw the contents of his plate being carried off before his eyes was at first one of extreme disgust. He looked at the pirate, who for a few seconds held the pudding suspended in midair while he finished a sentence, and then a grim smile overpowered his countenance as he saw the surprised look on his neighbor's face.

The Doctor slowly masticated the ravished morsel and looked doubtfully at the fork from which he had taken it.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said, in confusion, "but did I take some of your pudding?"

"You did, sir," replied the other in a stern voice, "and you are welcome to the remainder, sir," and with these words he pushed the plate of pudding over to the Doctor and stalked away in a very dignified manner.

Mrs. Ida McKellup is ill at Vanceburg. Rev. D. W. Robertson, who has been residing in Fleming county for some time, has moved to Millersburg.

Charles B. Case, late of this city, has opened a blacksmith shop in Aberdeen. Charles is a tiptop workman.

RAILWAY EARNINGS.

And Some Other Interesting Matters in Regard to the C. and O.

The gross earnings of the C. and O. for the year were in excess of $10,350,000. For the year, save the last week of December, when there was an increase over the corresponding period of 1895, the gross earnings were exactly $10,005,816, as against $9,540,083 for the same period of 1895—that is, a period of eleven months and three weeks—was just $465,733, add to this the increase of the last week of the year—$78,398—and we have $773,901. This is certainly a gratifying exhibit to make to the stockholders during a year when nearly every road in the United States showed large decreases.

The C. and O. has a contract with the Adams Express Company, from which $75,000 is received annually, and one with the Pullman Car Company, by which the latter maintains its own cars and retains all earnings under $7,500 per annum, the C. and O. paying all running expenses, save salaries.

An important contract is that with the Western Union Telegraph Company, owning lines along the C. and O. The Telegraph Company gives the C. and O. 85 per cent of receipts from a commercial business done at C. and O. Stations and telegraphing to the extent of $14,500 per year free; the C. and O. hauling freight for the Telegraph Company to the extent of $1,800 annually free, each company maintaining its own lines.

Within about thirty days the C. and O. will have its extension completed from Walhara to Brookville. The distance is about ten miles. About three miles of the extension is yet to be built. The line is called the Brookville Railroad.
